

Travel Insurance

The vast majority of standard insurance policies do not cover for eventualities resulting from any existing health condition such as M.E. In 2006, I spent a month trying to find a policy that did, and failed. However, at the time of writing, I have been advised that RAC, SAGA and Travelbility provide these 'inclusive' policies.

Travelbility is travel insurance especially created for people who are disabled and those with pre-existing medical conditions. It provides European and Worldwide cover, as a single trip or annual multi-trip policy.

In addition, you may try contacting the Association of British Insurers. As always, I am grateful for any feedback that can be provided to me on any other similar policies and resultant experiences.

Given my reduced capabilities, whilst I have previously not always taken out travel insurance when travelling abroad, I now always do so and actually renew an annual policy, which is not much more expensive than a single trip policy and is now very common. I also declare my condition to the insurers.
